6. Policies 2.9.1 to 2.9.6 are replaced with the following:

2.9.1 Prime Agriculture Areas

- 2.9.1.1 Require conservation of prime agricultural land in prime agricultural areas to provide a secure, long-term local food source for future generations by:
- a. Enabling identification of specialty agricultural land in prime agricultural areas;
 - b. Coordinating designation of agricultural lands that are shared with adjacent municipalities, as required;
 - c. Requiring the City's Land Use Bylaw to reflect RAMP Subdivision Criteria for prime agricultural areas;
 - d. Ensuring that research and engagement is conducted to determine suitability of in-situ, resource-based economic assets (i.e., coal, sand, and/or gravel, marl, and peat), when such uses are proposed in prime agricultural areas; and
 - e. Considering other non-agricultural uses in prime agricultural areas, preferably on lower capability land, if it can be demonstrated that locations in all other agricultural areas or at cluster sites are unfeasible.

2.9.2 Land Use and Industry

- 2.9.2.1 Require preservation of and access to agricultural lands and protection of agricultural operations that are compatible with urban uses until such agricultural land is required for population or employment growth by:
- a. Requiring minimization of impacts on the agricultural system when undertaking integrated planning for growth management;
 - b. Encouraging compatible land uses where agricultural and non-agricultural land uses interface;
 - c. Requiring compatibility and connectivity of natural areas adjacent to agricultural areas; and
 - d. Considering reclaimed lands for uses that benefit the agricultural system.
- 2.9.2.2 Encourage the development and maintenance of agricultural uses that will strengthen the local economy.
- 2.9.2.3 Encourage the development of industries related to food production and the processing of agricultural products, including agri-business and other agricultural support services, such as logistics, warehousing, and co-packing.

2.9.2.4 Encourage the development of a regional approach to agricultural waste disposal.

2.9.3 Soil Management

2.9.3.1 Recognize soil as a non-renewable resource that should be managed accordingly by:

- a. Requiring consideration for soil management, reuse, and recycling when preparing area structure plans for greenfield areas;
- b. Encouraging the management of soil resources throughout all stages of development; and
- c. Encouraging and prioritizing the management of soils in the municipality that they are derived from.

2.9.3.2. In the event that soils cannot be managed within the city, the receiving municipal jurisdiction will be consulted to identify criteria and best management practices to be followed before soils are relocated to that municipal jurisdiction.

2.9.4 Urban Agriculture

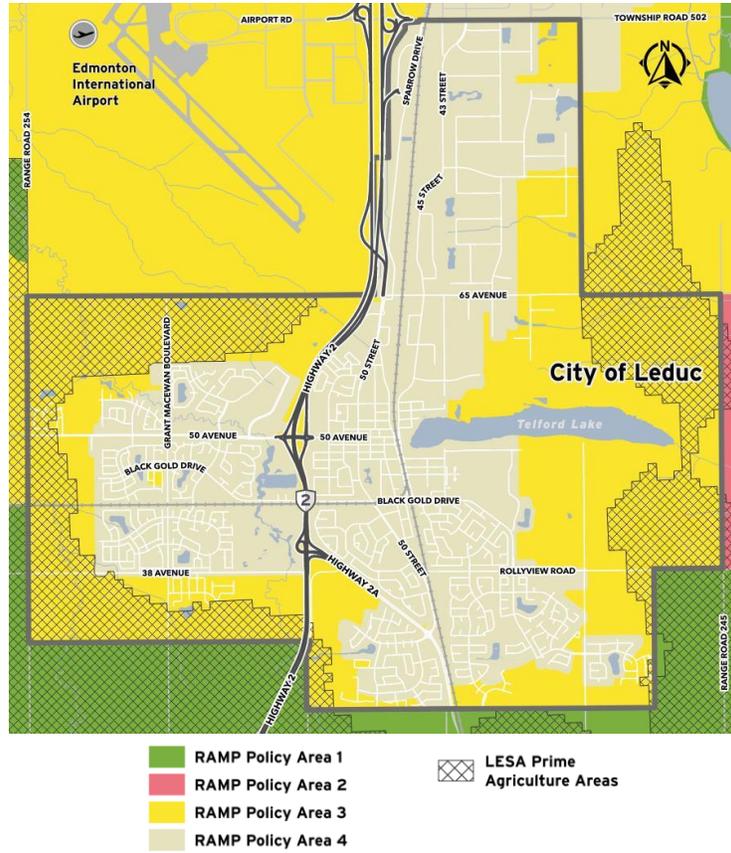

2.9.4.1 Require the development of an urban agriculture plan that identifies how urban agriculture will be supported in the city and include consideration for:

- a. Identifying existing agricultural operations that may be kept as an existing land use that will be supported by the urban agriculture plan;
- b. Supporting urban agriculture in suitable locations within Policy Area 4; and
- c. Identifying opportunities for value-added agriculture uses in Policy Area 4, where it can be demonstrated that the uses are suitable and compatible with urban areas.

"Urban Village Nodes: Areas that provide opportunities for local jobs, retail, services, and other community amenities. They are strategically placed at convenient and accessible locations to meet anticipated community needs, while allowing consideration for integrating higher density housing forms nearby."

"Value-Added Agriculture: As defined in the RAMP, Value-Added Agriculture is the addition of a process or service to an agricultural raw material being produced by the (farmer) producer. This may include some form of processing (such as milling, drying, cleaning, sorting, slaughtering, distilling, refining, or direct marketing through farm gate sales, farmers' markets, or direct distribution)."

20. In the Table of Contents, after "2.9 Agriculture 46", the following is added:

"2.9.1 Prime Agriculture Areas	46
2.9.2 Land Use and Industry	47
2.9.3 Soil Management	47
2.9.4 Urban Agriculture	47",

and that all subsequent page numbers be appropriately renumbered.
